It’s a Matter of Privacy
(EMP-LVF-ITMPE04-ELR)

This interactive, 50-minute eLearning module introduces employees to the Canadian Standards Association Mode Code, or CSA Model Code, for the Protection of Personal Information. The code is also referred to as the 10 Core Principles of Privacy. This course reviews each of the 10 principles and walks the learner through how the model code relates to the Personal Information and Electronic (PIPED) Acts or PIPEDA. For each of the 10 principles, learners can review a credit union scenario. The scenarios allow learners to apply their knowledge in a credit union situation, identifying ways to reduce risk before they happen. Through these scenarios, and knowledge checks, learners will determine what they must do to protect their member’s personal information, and their credit union, from a possible privacy breach.

This course will equip you to:

- List the ten principles of privacy
- Describe each of the ten principles, including how each could be applied at your credit union
- List what is, and is not, considered personal information
- Explain the role of The Privacy Commissioner in Canada
- Define a privacy breach
- Explain the steps that must be taken if a privacy breach has taken place
- Identify your role in protecting personal member information
- Describe the link between protecting personal information and identify theft

Register online

Duration 50 minutes
Audience New employees as well as those who want a refresher on privacy responsibilities as set out PIPEDA or the Personal Information Protection Acts.
More Information For help with registration or any questions, contact Client Solutions at 1.888.367.1386 or clientsolutions@cusource.ca